

Shabbat Shalom Yisrael,

This evening at the ending of the day, being the 15th day Shabbat of the 13th month of 5994sc, as the sun was setting, we were able to take a photo of the sun, showing that “Yes the Turn of the Year has occurred”. Which we knew it had occurred, simply because you cannot have more than 13 months in a year. However, we wanted to take a photo of this, so we can compare it to the photo from last month, to show how we are to read the sun and moon “turning” over their respective directions.

We sent out a newsletter last month, on the 15th day of the 12th month, showing that the sun and moon had Not yet Turned over their respective directions. Therefore these two witnesses, the sun and moon, had spoken forth and declared a 13th month this year. That newsletter showing the photos and explanations can be found in the YHRIM Newsletter Archive. Here is the direct link to that newsletter: <http://www.yhrim.com/12-15-5994 - 13th Month Declared.pdf>

In this newsletter, we will at least show the photo we took last month (the 15th day of the 12th month) of the sun. Take notice of where the sun is setting, in regard to the primary direction of west: (We have added the date to the top left of the photo)

In this photo above, the sun is still Left of West. This told us last month, that the Turn of the Year had Not yet occurred, and that a 13th month was declared.

Now let's look at today:

Today, as the sun set, we went and looked to read the sun's position once again. This being the 13th month, we already knew what the outcome would be. But for teaching purposes, we wanted to once again take a photo, so that we could show this and let people compare to the positions from last month.

We set the camera back up in the same location, and took the photo below this evening being the 15th day of the 13th month. Again take notice of where the sun is setting, in regard to the primary direction of west:

Do you see the change? This time we find that the sun has now 'Turned' over the primary direction of west, and is now setting Right of West. Therefore this declares that the 'Turn of the Year' has now occurred, and the Next Rosh Chodesh/New Moon begins the 1st month of the Year, the month of Aviv!!

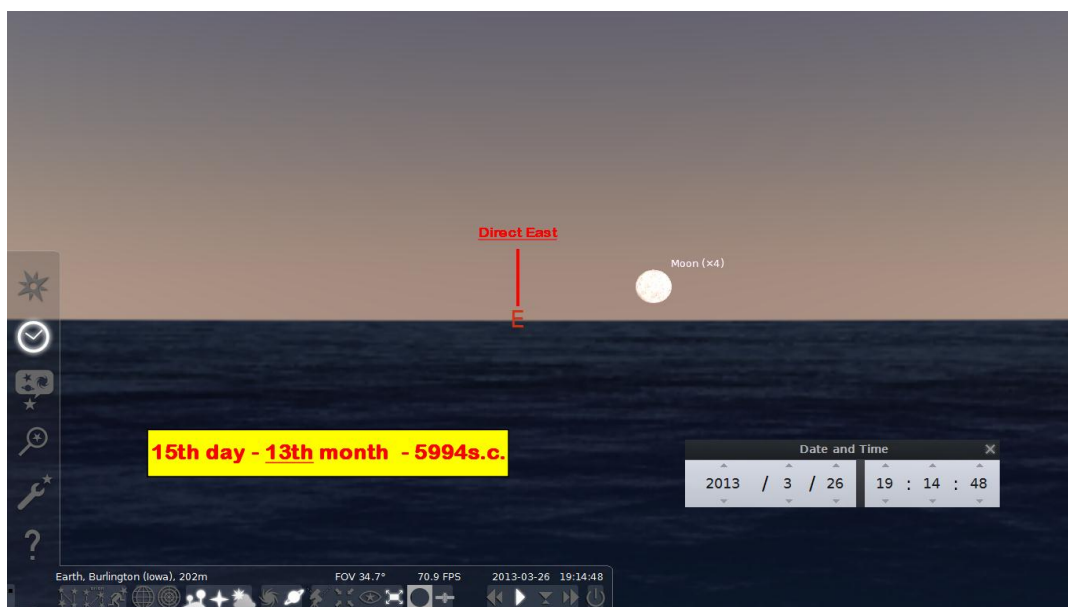

Now, we need to see if the moon has also Turned over its primary direction of East. As it takes Both Witnesses, the Sun & Moon, to declare the Year.

We'll start out with the photo that we took last month, being the 15th day of the 12th month:

Again, last month we can easily see that the moon was still Left of East, and therefore it had not "Turned" over its primary direction of East.

Now, we wanted to show the moon today, just like we did the sun. However, this afternoon, the clouds moved into the east, and we were unable to see the moon rise this evening. So, for the moon this month, the only thing I can show is a screen shot from Stellarium, calibrated for this location. You won't see the grain bin, but what is important is the Moon's Position as its Rising & the primary direction of East:

As you notice, the moon has now Turned over its primary direction East, and is now using Right of East. So the Moon also has declared that the Turn of the Year has occurred.

So we have both witnesses together in agreement, just as is written in Beresheeth/Genesis 1:14.

Again these two witnesses tell us that the Next Rosh Chodesh will be Aviv. Therefore all of those who are keeping Pesach/Passover this month, they are keeping it an entire one to early. This is why it is so important to understand how to Read the Sun & Moon to know when they speak forth/declare the turn of the year, instead of listening to when some man declares it, or when your 'rabbi' declares it, or when they say the 'barley', or etc....

It can Only Be Declared by Yahuah, through His Two Witnesses which He assigned the task to speak forth His Calendar in Beresheeth/Genesis 1:14 and many other verses.

Again, if you missed last month's newsletter, which had more explanations, you can still read it in our YHRIM newsletter archive. Or here is the direct link: <http://www.yhrim.com/12-15-5994 - 13th Month Declared.pdf>

In last month's newsletter linked above, we also linked the teaching "How to Correctly Read and Determine the True Turn of the Year" in which we fully explain not only how to read it for yourself, but also Why this is the Only Scriptural Way to determine the True Turn of the Year.

This teaching is live on the homepage of our website, www.YHRIM.com. The direct link to this teaching is: <http://www.yhrim.com/The Turn of the Year.pdf>
